

MID-WINTER BASEBALL

League May Comprise Eight Ball Teams.

The Mid-Winter baseball league may comprise eight teams this season instead of five as last year. This was decided at a meeting held last evening at Pearson & Potter's sporting goods store, at which the following teams were represented:

Aalas—Anderson and Luning; Makikis—J. Bento and Kiwa; Punahou—Jos. J. Dias; Honolulu Iron Works—Roe and Swanzy; Pacifics—W. Rapozo.

The meeting was called to order by T. K. Ulukou, with J. J. Dias as secretary. One of the most important matters considered was the selection of "Jimmie" Williams, the crack batsman of the big league, as President.

The applications of three new teams were handed in for the Alohas, Roads & Bridges and Wide Awakes, and were favorably acted upon.

The date for the opening of the season has not been decided upon yet, but will be some time during the summer, possibly in the latter part of June or early part of July. There is a disposition to "feel" the pulse of the trustees of the league baseball grounds as to whether they may be used for Sunday playing. If these cannot be secured, then the games will be played at Kapiolani Park.

Another meeting will be held next week Wednesday evening.

COILED IN THE TANK

Cable in the Restorer is Transferred to Land.

Four hundred miles of cable are being transferred from the Pacific Commercial Cable steamer Restorer to one of the big cement tanks on the cable company's property at Iwilei.

The long overhang bow of the Restorer projects out over the street at the end of Railway Wharf No. 1, and from the bow the wire is carried thirty feet above the ground along a series of iron pulleys hanging from the cross-arms of newly-erected poles. The cable is drawn to the tank by means of a double clutch apparatus erected on the flooring at the edge of the tank, the motive power being supplied by an electric dynamo. The cable is carefully coiled in the tank, this work developing upon about a dozen Hawaiians.

GIVE CHAMBERLAIN'S PAIN BALM A TRIAL.

No other liniment affords such prompt relief from rheumatic pains. No other is so valuable for deep seated pains like lame back and pains in the chest. Give this liniment a trial and become acquainted with its remarkable qualities and you will never wish to be without it. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents for Hawaii.

Mail is due from the coast today on the Occidental and Oriental liner Coptic. It is probable that the steamer will arrive this afternoon although she may get in this morning. There will be six days' accumulations of mail and papers.

MANY ARE CONVERTED

The singing last night was magnificent. Led by Mr. Hillis and the picked chorus the voices of the young people blended and rolled up among the rafters in triumphant songs of praise. Mr. Butler stirred the audience deeply as always, the chorus added greatly to the service but the feature of the evening was the congregational singing.

Dr. Ostrom gave a practical talk to young people last night, taking as his theme, "What Do I Live For?" He told of the various follies to which many men devoted their lives and then showed how the real life was that patterned after the life of the Master. "Christianity is not a tag, to check me to Paradise," he declared. "It is a life that I should live, and Jesus Christ is my example."

At the opening of the service the evangelist administered a scathing rebuke to those who have criticised the great revival movement in a light way. Papers and ministers have accused the revivalists of living high, of taking immense sums of money out of towns and of accomplishing little. Dr. Ostrom replied to these attacks with absolute denials backed up by facts. The campaigners have been entertained by the committees in the various cities and have gone where they sent them. As for making great amounts of money he cited the instances of some of the campaigners who had to borrow money for their expenses after some of the coast campaigns. As for the accusation that the revival accomplished nothing he said that results proved the fallacy of such a statement. "Let us drop criticism and help the people," he pleaded. "We may have differences but there are souls to be saved. Let us save them first."

At the close of last night's service there was a remarkable after meeting. The entire body of young people who attended service, together with many older persons went to the lecture room where a heart-to-heart meeting was held. There many for the first time gave their lives to Christ. It was an inspiring sight to see young men and young women, many of them students in the local schools, rising up one after another and in clear firm tones announcing themselves to be on the Master's side. The pastors and workers passed through the congregation speaking a word here, shaking hands there and many were persuaded to make their decision. Just how many there were who allied themselves with Christ last night is not known but there was a response that gladdened the hearts of those who are working for the success of the campaign. There was another impressive scene at the close when the entire body of people, men and women, went down on their knees and prayed earnestly for those who are as yet unsaved. It was a sight that must have impressed a non-believer at least with the conviction that the Christian people were in earnest and confident of the power of prayer in the fight against the devil.

LAST NIGHT'S SERVICES.

The auditorium of Central Union church was filled last night with the largest congregation that has attended a week-day service since the opening of the campaign. As the address was especially for the young people they were a prominent part of the audience. A large body of students from the Kawaiahao Seminary was present. Students of many of the local schools were present. After an inspiring praise service led by John P. Hillis, the magnetic chorus leader, the congregation repeated the Lord's prayer, standing. An offering for the incidental expenses of the campaign was taken up. Mr. Fred. Butler sang in his magnificent voice "The Resurrection."

Dr. Ostrom took for his lesson the latter part of the second chapter of Acts, a portion of Peter's address. During the reading the evangelist spoke of the criticism that the revival has been subjected to ever since it began a year ago. "It is easy to criticize," he said, "but let us lay aside criticism and help the people. Ever since the movement began there has been more or less criticism, some by individuals and some by newspapers. One Seattle paper accused us of living at the Washington hotel. I told them that it was true, that I had been taken there by the committee. I would live in a corner if it would help the Lord's work. The paper said it was easy enough to be a Christian at the Washington. Well, I saw a good many people there that seemed to find it a hard task. A pastor said that the revival would not do any good, yet he received 120 members into his church within three weeks after its close. We expect to have criticism, but the movement is here and it is going on to victory. Critics are like little dogs barking at the heels of a elephant. It will take a good many little dogs to bring down the elephant. Let us drop criticism and join to save souls."

After a hymn and the giving of texts by the pastors, Dr. Ostrom announced as his text a verse from II Timothy, "Jesus Christ who has brought life to light and immortality through the gospel." He said in part:

"One of the first questions a man has to settle is, 'What do I live for?' There are many men who live for what they put into their stomachs. When-

TO SAFEGUARD GIRLS IN EXPOSITION CITY

At last night's service at the request of the Portland Y. W. C. A. Secretary Dr. Ostrom called the attention of the audience to the work to be done by the Portland Y. W. C. A. for the girls who will attend the Lewis and Clark exposition in that city. Many girls were lured to St. Louis under promises of work at high pay only to find themselves the victims of designing men. It is to prevent such things that the Y. W. C. A. has organized the Exposition Travellers Aid Committee. Already numerous frauds have been exposed by the committee and they will be alert to safeguard all girls attending the fair.

Following are some suggestions to girls from one of their pamphlets:

1. See to it that you have money enough for an emergency and for your return home.
2. See to it that before leaving home you learn from a reliable source that your destination in Portland is a safe one.
3. See to it that you accept no directions from either men or women on trains, if unknown to you, and that you report to the conductor any advances made. You must depend upon yourself and the railroad officials for information concerning trains. Any questions will be answered by the Traveller's Aid Agents to be found at the stations on the way. They will be women with badges.
4. See to it that you have an authorized Traveller's Aid card of identification.
5. See to it that you apply for these cards to your Organization, Society or Guild.
6. See to it that before accepting employment in Portland, through advertisement or otherwise, that the Exposition Traveller's Aid Committee endorses it.
7. See to it that before going to any lodging or boarding house that the Exposition Traveller's Aid Committee recommends it. The address of the Portland headquarters of this Committee is 312 Oak Street, Portland, Ore.
